Intergenerational MADD Camp

NEW Your kids love MADD (Music, Art, Dance, Drama) Camp. Maybe you have always wanted to come along and join the creative fun! Now is your chance to explore the fun together. This retreat is strategically scheduled during the statewide teachers' convention so you can experience a whole host of fun together.

We will focus on all forms of creative arts and to provide each participant with plenty of options to explore their creative spirit. The schedule and program of this camp encourages everyone to bring their interests and skills to share while learning from other campers. The group designs the program based on the interests and gifts they bring.

Families of all shapes and sizes, including individuals, are encouraged to attend. This intergenerational approach to a multifaceted program like the fine arts promises to produce a multi-fulfilling long weekend for everyone!

Event 8435 will begin Thursday night through Sunday breakfast.

Event 8437 will begin with dinner on Friday through Sunday breakfast.

Exploring Intergenerational Creativity

NEW Join in on this event to broaden your exposure to new ideas with "intergenerational creativity." Bring your quilting, scrapbooking, woodcarving, knitting or other projects with you — and look forward to getting some serious crafting time in the company of many other like-minded people. Even if you don't have a current craft or arts passion, come and experiment with the many options!

This event, which begins after dinner on Friday and concludes after lunch on Sunday, invites intergenerational diversity into your life and enhances your ability to look at older and younger people as a source of lively friendships, new perspectives and fresh ideas. It is also a time to strengthen family relationships by spending time, actively involved with your children, grandchildren, older members of your family and their friends. During this weekend there will be time to work on your own project as well as directed time for group projects and discussions about creativity. God is the ultimate creator. We will explore how our faith can enhance our creativity.
